Cooking is fun and "real food" is really good! There are plenty of reasons to get kids in the kitchen at an early age. Learning to make simple recipes can boost a child's math and verbal skills. And as any adult who has baked a cake knows, science is behind the magic that converts a bowl of batter into a delicious celebration. Great cooking is about more than recipes—it's about techniques.

"Cooking is a way to teach children about reading or math."

– Emeril Lagasse

In our classes, Carysfort Kitchen Chef de Cuisine Betania Salles will focus on the fun and creative aspects of cooking. This cooking class will bring joy and accomplishment to your child – and maybe even some delicious treats for your family. Designed for ages 8-12, this class creates the perfect foundation for a lifetime of great cooking, all while having fun trying something new. The best part—they'll get to eat everything they make! Vine to Table Dinner

Anthony Lamas' Latin culinary roots run deep as he found his passion for food at a young age while working in his family's Spanish restaurant. Likewise, his mother's heirloom recipes sparked his interest in the cuisine of his Mexican and Puerto Rican heritage. By helping prepare meals on the family farm and participating in Future Farmers of America, Lamas was practicing the "farm to table" philosophy before it was a national movement. To pursue his dream of becoming a professional chef, Lamas trained with the San Diego Culinary Apprenticeship Program and worked with Jeff Tunks at the Loews Coronado Bay Resort. Under Tunks' tutelage, Lamas explored West Coast flavors and Pacific Rim recipes; he credits the acclaimed chef as his mentor.

In 1992, Lamas discovered Louisville, Kentucky as an emerging culinary destination and moved there. His style of cooking was unique to the area, and in 2005 he opened Seviche to rave reviews. Seviche has consistently maintained a four-star rating from the Louisville Courier-Journal, and Latina Magazine named Lamas a "leader of the Latin food revolution" alongside chefs like Douglas Rodriguez and Jose Andres.

Lamas has also garnered significant national attention. In 2014, he was one of 16 chefs asked to take part in the James Beard Foundation's fifth Chefs Boot Camp for Policy and Change. He has also cooked at the famed James Beard House six times, is a 4-time James Beard Award Nominee and has participated in the James Beard Celebrity Chef Tour Dinner Series in Nashville, Saratoga and Asheville.

With his passionate nature and engaging personality, Lamas is a seasoned TV chef – he won on Food Networks' "Extreme Chef," has appeared on the Cooking Channel's "America's Best Bites" and was featured in "Back Home," a documentary produced by Diego Luna that explored his culinary connections to Mexico. Most recently, he competed on the debut episode of Food Network's "Beat Bobby Flay" and helped bring new life to struggling venues as a culinary expert on Paramount Network's "Bar Rescue."

In addition to his commitment to "spicing up the South" with his Nuevo Latino cuisine, Lamas is dedicated to raising awareness of sustainable seafood practices. His efforts earned him a Seafood Ambassador Award. In 2015 he released his first cookbook, "Southern Heat: New Southern Cooking, Latin Style".

FLAVORS OF FRANCE WITH CHEF PHILIPPE REYNAUD

Monday, February 10

Showcase Class

9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m. | $130

Tuesday, February 11

Vine to Table Dinner

with Joseph Drouhin

6:30 p.m. | $275++

Ooh, la, la! The culinary traditions of France are the foundation of education for many professional chefs. French food developed a bit of an “old school” reputation over the years, but now it’s got a whole new level of excitement thanks to updated, more informal presentations that bring that certain je ne sais quoi to dining in a whole new way.

Chef Philippe Reynaud, ORC Senior Director of Culinary, graduated from the Culinary Academy of Nice at 18, followed by a three-year apprenticeship at the Casinos of Cannes and Deauville, France. After working with top chefs in various French regions, he moved to Los Angeles in 1981 where he served seven years as Executive Chef at the Westwood Marquis Hotel and eight years at the Jonathan Town & Beach Clubs.

“In France, cooking is a serious art form and a national sport.”

– Julia Child

Chef Philippe has been leading Ocean Reef’s elite culinary team for more than 22 years. He is responsible for the operations of all Club kitchens, the ORC Food Truck, Catering, Conference Group Banquets, and Special Events. He oversees all menu development, visiting celebrity chefs’ dinners, cooking classes, and mentoring of over 200 culinary associates, interns and chefs. In 2012 and 2019, he spearheaded the publication of “Flavors of the Reef,” a book highlighting favorite dishes offered at Club restaurants. In 2013, he received Slow Food’s Snail of Approval award recognizing his efforts in support of local farms and fish sourcing. Through Feeding South Florida, Reynaud and his culinary team have provided the community with over 75,000 pounds of Extra Helpings last year to feed the disadvantaged. Chef Philippe will teach the fresh, seasonal, colorful food of regional French cooking.

TANTALIZING TREATS WITH CHEF JESSIE SHEEHAN

Friday, February 21
Showcase Class
9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m. | $130

Jessie Sheehan is a celebrated cookbook author, recipe developer, and baker. She is the self-proclaimed queen of “easy-peasy baking,” and contributes recipes and writing to The New York Times, the Washington Post, Epicurious, Food52, Bon Appetit, and more. Her third cookbook, “Snackable Bakes: 100 Easy-Peasy Recipes for Exceptionally Scrumptious Sweets and Treats” is all about fuss-free baking and was named one of the best cookbooks of 2022 by The New York Times.

Sheehan prides herself on creating recipes for simple, mind-bogglingly delicious and unfussy desserts and baked goods. Her recipes avoid long ingredient lists, calling for items you’ve never heard of or can’t find at the local grocery store, complicated instructions, and any recipe that will leave your sink full of dishes. Jessie passionately shares her favorite recipes with easy-to-find ingredients that are assembled quickly with (ideally) nothing more than a bowl, whisk and spatula.

Jessie wasn’t always an “easy-peasy sweets wizard.” In fact, she’s done time as an actress, a lawyer and a stay-at-home mom. But after abandoning her short-lived legal career and stint at home with her boys, she began working at Baked in Red Hook, Brooklyn as a junior baker. Matt and Nato (the owners and now Jessie’s mentors) taught her all they knew, introducing her to all the desserts she now loves best: snacking cakes, whoopie pies and jumbo chocolate chip cookies. While at Baked, Matt and Nato began writing books and asked Jessie to test and then develop recipes for them – and so began her love of all things cookbook-writing.

Since then, Jessie has worked on many other cookbooks, including Deb Perleman’s “Smitten Kitchen Everyday,” and Snoop Dogg’s “From Crook to Cook: Platinum Recipes from Tha Boss Dogg’s Kitchen,” among others, in addition to writing three of her own. Jessie’s fourth book, “Savory Snackable Bakes,” will be published in the fall of 2024.

Showcase Class

9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m. | $130

Tuesday, February 25

Vine to Table Dinner

with Kosta Browne Winery, California

6:30 p.m. | $275++

Chef Scott Drewno was raised in the heart of New York's Finger Lakes wine region, a rural area known for its vineyards and family-owned farms. Watching his mother turn fresh, seasonal produce from local farm stands into bubbling pies and cobblers first piqued his interest in cooking and planted the seed for Drewno's culinary ambition.

Drewno joined the Wolfgang Puck Fine Dining Group in 1998. At Chinois, he learned to meld French cooking techniques with vibrant Asian flavors, and at Spago, he came to understand the importance of beginning with only the finest ingredients. Drewno then furthered his knowledge and solidified his passion for Asian cuisines at Jean-Georges Vongerichten's Vong and Stephen Hansen's Ruby Foo's.

In 2007, Wolfgang Puck tapped Drewno as the opening Executive Chef of The Source where he received the coveted "Chef of the Year" prize in 2010 and 2016. Drewno has won many culinary competitions benefiting important causes, including the DC Crab Cake Competition, Pig Out for Diabetes, and DC Central Kitchen's Capital Food Fight. He won the Washington, DC leg of Cochon 555 (twice), a traveling culinary competition promoting sustainable farming of heritage breed pigs, and won the Cochon 555 Heritage Fire barbecue competition.

He also serves on the Board of the RAMW and is an Honorary Board Member of the DC Food & Beverage Collective. Each year, Drewno hosts fundraising events for DCFBC and the George Washington University Hospital Mobile Mammography Unit, two causes he holds near and dear to his heart.

In 2017, he formed The Fried Rice Collective with fellow chef Danny Lee and restaurateur Andrew Kim, and they opened their first restaurant, CHIKO, in Capitol Hill. Due to the restaurant's overwhelming popularity, The Fried Rice Collective eventually opened two other locations in the United States: one in DuPont Circle in Washington, DC and the other in Encinitas, California.

Drewno and The Fried Rice Collective decided to open a second concept in 2019. Anju, a sophisticated amalgam of traditional Korean flavors and modern cooking techniques, was recently named the number one best restaurant in DC by Washingtonian magazine. Anju has been featured in several national and local publications, such as the Food & Wine, Travel + Leisure, Forbes and The Wall Street Journal.

In 2017, Grueneberg received the James Beard Foundation Award for "Best Chef: Great Lakes" and was a semifinalist for "Outstanding Chef" in the 2019 and 2020 awards. Grueneberg has been a competitor and finalist on Bravo's "Top Chef: Texas" and Food Network's "Iron Chef Gauntlet." Suzanne Barr has become one of the most respected and beloved chefs for her flair for fresh comfort food and also her passion for local community, food security, and advocacy. Chef Suzanne's career as a chef, author, social activist, and culinary mentor is inspired by both her mother and father, two novice chefs, who instilled a lifelong passion to cherish the role that food plays in both nourishing the body as well as the soul.

Chef Suzanne's expansive culinary career includes her role as the inaugural Chef-In-Residence at the Gladstone Hotel in Toronto, Canada, owner of the former Saturday Dinette, and head chef and owner of True True Diner, a diner concept that paid homage to the sites of many civil rights sit-ins and the history of the diner in breaking down segregation. What is most impressive, however, is Suzanne's relentless advocacy for food security, marginalized communities, mental health, pay equity, nutrition literacy, and food source sustainability. Her truest form of self-expression is empowering and mentoring other women chefs. Earlier this year, Suzanne published "My Ackee Tree, A Chef's Memoir of Finding Home in the Kitchen," which takes readers on a personal journey of food, family, soul-searching, self-discovery, and even motherhood that leads Suzanne home...in the kitchen closer to her Jamaican heritage.

Suzanne's food philosophy is simple: to create nutritious, flavorful, and comforting foods made with local, accessible ingredients.

Culinary darling Chef Paula DaSilva first came into the South Florida dining scene in 2000 and has become one of the area's foremost talents in the realm of soulful, farm fresh cuisine. A member of The Ritz-Carlton, Fort Lauderdale culinary team since 2017, initially as Chef de Cuisine of its acclaimed restaurant Burlock Coast and then as Executive Chef of the entire property, Paula was recently appointed the property's Director of Culinary and Beverage. In her new role, Paula is directly responsible for the property's culinary outlets, beverage and wine program, in-room dining, Club Lounge, and more.

A native of Brazil, Paula attended the Art Institute of Fort Lauderdale where she earned a degree in Culinary Arts in 1999. That education proceeded a young love affair with cooking spent in her family-owned restaurants in Massachusetts and, later, in South Florida. After graduating, she joined the Marriott organization in a kitchen position at 3030 Ocean at the Harbor Beach Marriott in Fort Lauderdale under Chef Dean James Max. Years of training paid off when Paula earned a slot on Season 5, in 2009, of FOX's "Hell's Kitchen" with Gordon Ramsey, finishing as the season's runner-up and fan favorite. After the show, in 2010, Paula took to South Beach as the executive chef of 1500 Degrees at the illustrious Eden Roc Hotel. The chic farm-to-table concept earned rave reviews and popular acclaim for its soulful, seasonal, rustic cuisine – which have now become synonymous with Paula's style of cooking.

Carissa DaSilva started her own culinary career from a simple hobby that she grew into a little pastry shop called For the Love of Sweets in her hometown of Sebring, Florida. There, she would produce orders for custom cakes, pastries and cupcakes for special occasions for her customers. Eventually, Carissa found herself moving to South Florida where she joined Paula DaSilva in opening Artisan Beach House at the Ritz-Carlton in Bal Harbor.

Carissa's next venture would take her to be the Pastry Sous Chef Seminole Hard Rock Hotel and Casino in Hollywood and the famous "Guitar Hotel." In 2020, Carissa jumped into the private club sector and joined the team at the Lauderdale Yacht Club where she spent close to one year developing their pastry program. She then spent a year revamping the Pasty program at Mizner Country Club in Delray in 2021. Carissa most recently accepted the Pastry Chef Position at the Harbor Beach Marriott Resort and Spa in Fort Lauderdale, where she will use her passion to create amazing desserts throughout the hotel.

Her signature southern-French cuisine is inspired by family recipes and classic French techniques.

In 2012 Kelsey moved back home to open her catering company, Kelsey Barnard Catering. Today, she runs her catering company and restaurant, KBC, in historic downtown Dothan while also teaching virtual classes, taking her chef talents on the road, and appearing and cooking at events as often as possible.

She has a book coming out this fall and a new restaurant concept in the works. She lives in Dothan with her husband and two children, Monroe and Evelyn June. Kelsey and her family enjoy tending to their backyard garden and chicken coop and crabbing and boating from their beach bungalow on the weekends. Georgia-born, French-trained, Virginia Willis has foraged for berries in the Alaskan wilderness, harvested capers in Sicily, and beguiled celebrities such as Jane Fonda, Bill Clinton, and Aretha Franklin with her cooking – but it all started in her grandmother's country kitchen.

A graduate of L'Academie de Cuisine and Ecole de Cuisine La Varenne, Willis' first job in a professional kitchen was as an apprentice for Nathalie Dupree's TV cooking show on PBS. She has subsequently produced over 1000 TV episodes, working on Martha Stewart Living Television, Food Network's "Chopped", and as a judge on "Throwdown! with Bobby Flay". She was also recently featured on the front page of The New York Times food section.

Willis is the author of "Secrets of the Southern Table: A Food Lover's Tour of the Global South"; "Lighten Up, Y'all"; "Bon Appétit, Y'all"; "Basic to Brilliant, Y'all"; "Okra"; and "Grits". "Lighten Up, Y'all" received a James Beard Foundation Award. She is author of "Cooking with Virginia" for Southern Kitchen and Editor-at-Large for Southern Living.

To research Secrets of the Southern Table, she traveled to 11 states in eight months across the four seasons, interviewing and photographing a wide variety of Southerners.
